WIFE OF THAW PROCEEDS WITH PATHETIC NARRATIVE.

WAS ANNOYED AFTER MARRIAGE

WHITE RESUMED HIS ATTENTIONS, WITNESS SAYS.

COURT ADJOURNS TO MONDAY

Jerome Causes Stir by Objecting to "Defamation of the Dead"—Attempt to Enter Wills of Mr. and Mrs. Thaw as Evidence Fails—May Be Used Later.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw again today was the central figure at her husband's trial. She was still on the stand—her direct examination unfinished—when the usual week-end adjournment until Monday morning was taken.

Picking up the threads of her life's story where she had dropped them the evening before, the girl wife of the defendant always, she declared, telling her story just as she had related it to Harry Thaw, from time to time brought the narrative down to her wedding in Pittsburg on April 4, 1905, and their return to New York following a honeymoon trip in the west.

Followed by White.

She declared she had heard White call to her on the street once after this, and that on another occasion, when she passed him in a cab she noticed his cab turn around and follow her in the direction of a doctor's office, where she was going to have her throat treated.

Mrs. Thaw had taken up the story at the time of her return from Europe in October, 1903, following her refusal of Thaw's offer of marriage, on the grounds which she related yesterday. On Monday she may be called upon to finish the relation of the events which it is claimed by the defense brought on the explosive impulse in the diseased brain of the defendant and caused the killing of Stanford White.

While today's testimony lacked the personal quality which made yesterday's recital so dramatic, impelling, enthralling and pathetic, it served to clear away some of the doubts and inferences which remained from the incomplete details as to the full extent of the revelations she claims to have made to her husband. There were repetitions, too, at the suggestion of counsel, and incidents which had not been gone over in the first years of Mrs. Thaw's acquaintance with Stanford White were brought out in completion of the life story.

Jerome Objects to Defamation.

District Attorney Jerome, who had throughout silently listened to the young woman's statements, sent a thrill of excitement through the court room late in the day by vigorously protesting against this defamation of the dead.

"Is there no limit," he exclaimed, "to the aspersions that are to be cast upon this man? Your honor well knows I cannot under the law controvert any statement this witness might make against the memory of Stanford White."

In terms bitterly sarcastic Mr. Jerome spoke of "this rattle of the tenderloin," and declared the court had the right to limit such testimony until competent evidence has been adduced here to show that this man is, or was, of unsound mind. "We don't know whether the defendant was ever insane," he concluded.

The question which called out the vehement protest from the district attorney was addressed to Mrs. Thaw by Mr. Delmas and its purport was whether or not Harry Thaw had at any time told her about other girls who had met a fate similar to yours at the hands of this man."

"What man?" snapped Mr. Jerome.

"Stanford White," replied Mr. Delmas, with the coolness of voice and manner characteristic of him, and then he added, still in the same low tone, "who else?"

Need Better Insanity Foundation.

Justice Fitzgerald held that the district attorney's suggestion was a good one, and he thought the defense should lay a better foundation to show insanity before proceeding along the line suggested by Mr. Delmas' question.

"We will proceed to do this as soon as possible," announced Mr. Delmas.

Mrs. Thaw declared today that Stanford White, during the year which followed her experience in the room of the mirrored walls, repeatedly sought to have her visit him alone.

"I told Harry," she said, "that Mr. White had begged me, had pleaded, [illegible] and done everything he could to make me come to see him [illegible] and that I was cold as a fish, and not a human being. I told Mr. White I did not care to trust him."

After her return from Europe and during the months she would not see Harry Thaw, because of the dreadful things Mr. White and his friends told me about him," she declared, Thaw accused her of [illegible] relations with the architect.

"I told him it was a lie, and that I had not," she testified, with an emphatic show of feeling.

Barrymore Introduced.

The defense had Mrs. Thaw tell of her acquaintance with Jack Barrymore, the actor. Mr. Barrymore was in the court room one day during the early part of the trial at the instance of the district attorney, it was said. Mr. Delmas

GEORGE FAVROT IS INDICTED

Louisiana Congressman-Elect Is Charged With Murder.

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 8.—Democratic Congressman-elect George K. Favrot was today indicted by the grand jury on a charge of murder for shooting Dr. Harry Aldrich, one of the leading physicians of Baton Rouge.

Congressman-elect Favrot, immediately after the shooting last November, [illegible] killed Dr. Aldrich for making slanderous statements about Mrs. Favrot.

Dr. Aldrich was Mrs. Favrot's family physician and had been his lifelong friend. Congressman-elect Favrot is one of the leading jurists of Louisiana and was judge of the civil district court at the time of the shooting, but resigned immediately. It is a notable coincidence that before the shooting he had appointed the grand jury which today indicted him.

NEW YORK CENTRAL WRECK

Two Trainmen Killed; Several Passengers Hurt.

OSSINING, N. Y., Feb. 8.—Engineer William Kirk and Fireman James Armitage of the Adirondack and Montreal express of the New York Central railroad, were killed and several passengers slightly injured tonight when the express crashed into the rear of a freight train two miles south of this place. The private car of Alfred G. Vanderbilt was included in the train. Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt and a party of friends were on the car en route to Montreal. Reports say that no member of the party was injured.

WAR IS NOW IMMINENT

CLASH BETWEEN HONDURAS AND NICARAGUA FEARED.

Mexico and United States Endeavoring to Prevent Hostilities—Ships Start to Central America.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Carrying out the wishes of the state department that a couple of American naval vessels be kept in Central American waters, the navy department has dispatched the gunboat Marietta to Greytown, on the gulf coast of Nicaragua, in addition to the cruiser Chicago. The Yorktown, now at Mare Island, is not to go to Central America.

It is stated that the purpose of sending these ships to Central America is to have a ship at the disposal of the American ministers if they should find it necessary to travel up and down the coast in these countries where communication by regular channels is so limited. Also they will, of course, protect any American property that may be endangered.

Consul William Alger at Tegucigalpa, Honduras, communicated yesterday with American Minister Combes in Guatemala City that the opinion at Tegucigalpa was that war between Honduras and Nicaragua was almost inevitable. The officials here, however, do not take any such pessimistic view, and believe that the combined efforts of Mexico and America will convince them that their differences can be settled without recourse to arms.

It was admitted at the state department today that correspondence had [illegible] department of state and the Mexican government regarding the prevention of hostilities. The Washington government regards itself as bound under the treaty of San Jose and the Marblehead pact to offer good offices to prevent warfare between the Central American republics and as the republic of Mexico is under similar obligations, the two are trying to arrange a program whereby Mexico will represent the wishes of the United States, as well as her own people.

CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 8.—At the instance of the president of the United States, President Diaz has sent to the presidents of Guatemala, Salvador and Costa Rica a request that they use their united influence with Honduras and Nicaragua to induce them to suspend preparations for war and give full freedom to the board of arbitration, which is now in session in Salvador with the object of deciding the differences between Honduras and Nicaragua. The board of arbitration has convened in conformity with the treaty of Corinto of 1902, and now has under consideration the invasion of Nicaragua by Honduran soldiers. The prompt action of the president of the United States and the president of Mexico, working with the Central American governments, it is expected, will avert a war which, if it should occur, would probably involve all Central American governments. No official advices were received today as to whether Honduras and Nicaragua have taken any steps to comply with the request, but in diplomatic circles it is thought that both governments will do so, and that the board of arbitration will be left free to settle the dispute.

MURDERER IS NOT EXEMPT

Two Commitments to Insane Asylum Make Him No Less Responsible.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 8.—An opinion was rendered in the supreme court today holding that two commitments to an insane asylum do not exempt a murderer from responsibility for his crime nor uphold his plea at the time of the homicide. This opinion was rendered in the case of Frank Willard, who, in 1905, shot and killed Sheriff Smith of Mendocino county. He had been arrested on the charge of insanity, was before the court and adjudged insane, when he suddenly leaped to his feet and ran from the court room, declaring that he was not insane. The sheriff pursued him and was killed. He was placed on trial for murder, convicted and given the death penalty.

DEMANDS REPORT

SCOTT IS ANXIOUS CONCERNING DISTRICT MERGER.

RAILROAD COMMITTEE SLOW

BILL PROVIDING FOR STATE ACCOUNTANT DISCUSSED.

HOUSE HOLDS SHORT SESSION

Senate Spends Afternoon in Discussion of Bill for Constitutional Amendment to Raise Salaries. Measure Will Be Called Up Later.

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 8.—Senator Scott this morning demanded a report from the committee on railroads on his resolution calling for an investigation of the reported merger of the railway lines into Cripple Creek. The resolution was introduced nearly two weeks ago, and referred, since which time nothing had been heard from it. He made the further announcement that he would have the resolution considered or know the reason. The people of his district believed that an injustice was being done them. If that were true they were entitled to some kind of relief, and if it should prove to be not true they surely should be permitted to know it, that they might no longer think harshly of the companies concerned.

Lewis Is Suspicious.

Senator Lewis' bill to provide for a state accountant took up most of the time of the day. So harsh were some of the criticisms and so determined some of the opposition that the senator declared he believed it to be a part of an agreement to prevent the passage of any of the measures proposed by him. This was denied by other senators, who held that the bill had side-lights that were of dark hue. His bill was to provide, he said, something that the Republican state platform had advocated—an officer to go over the accounts of all state officers, all state boards and even the officers of counties. One of the objects was to secure a uniform system of keeping books in all the public offices of the state, and another was to protect against defalcations. Had there been such an officer many of the officials found "short" in their accounts would have been exposed much sooner, saving the state and counties many thousands of dollars. The bill provided for a public accountant at $4,000 a year, an assistant at $2,000, and a clerk at $1,200.

Bill Goes to Foot of Calendar.

After fighting through all the morning session, the bill was thrown to the foot of the calendar when a motion was made to rise, as the committee did not "report progress and ask leave to sit again." At the afternoon session a motion was made to make the bill a special order to be considered at an early date, but this was defeated. The division for and against the measure was not on party lines, some of each party being included in each side.

Much of the afternoon session was taken up in the discussion of a bill for a constitutional amendment to raise salaries. It provides that the governor shall receive $6,000 a year, his private secretary $2,500, each of the judges of the supreme court $10,000, and each of the judges of the Second Judicial district (Denver) $6,000, and judges of all other districts $5,000. At present the Denver judges get $5,000 and those in other districts $4,000. The committee struck the enacting clause from the bill, but it will be called up again.

Favorable recommendation, which is equivalent to passing second reading, was given Senator Millard's bill to straighten out registration troubles. It provides that in cities where the precinct lines for the city elections and the precinct lines for the county elections do not agree, a separate registration board shall be provided for the precincts, so that no confusion will ensue.

The house remained in session but a very few minutes this morning, adjourning over to Monday morning. One reason given for the action was that so many of the members had been excused that the life of bills would be threatened if only slight opposition appeared to them in any of the discussions. The house committee on appropriations went to Greeley this morning to inspect the Normal school at that place.

DOCUMENTS ARE MISSING

Evidence Against American Ice Co. Taken From Safe.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 8.—All the evidence on which was based the complaint of Attorney General Mayer against the American Ice company for dissolution of an alleged monopoly of the ice business served on December 29 has disappeared from the attorney general's office and can not be found. This announcement was made tonight by Attorney General William S. Jackson. Mr. Jackson also made public affidavits of employes of the attorney general's office which show that a part at least of the papers were known to be missing late in December before the retirement of his predecessor, Mr. Mayer, but that the disappearance of the evidence was not known to Mr. Jackson until early in January, when, after he himself had assumed office, he took up the case with a view of further proceedings. Mr. Jackson said tonight that he had issued a demand upon the American Ice company for access to its books and records for the purpose of replacing the lost evidence and that the company had asked until Monday to make answer.

British Subject Desires Compensation for His Time.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 8.—The British embassy at Washington has demanded of the state department at Washington that King county compensate Andrew Hughes, a British subject, for being held five days at the county jail as a witness in a criminal case after the case had been terminated. The [illegible] Prosecuting Attorney Mackintosh to once see what compensation is due the man and settle the matter through the department.

HORRIBLE VENGEANCE

LAWBREAKERS SEND JUDGE INFERNAL MACHINE.

Justice of Peace Cortese Fatally Injured Through Plot of Angry Italians—Office Wrecked.

PATTERSON, N. J., Feb. 8.—Justice of the Peace Robert C. Cortese received injuries in his office tonight from which he died later by an explosion of an infernal machine sent him by express. The office was wrecked and the detonation could be heard for blocks. The judge has actively aided the police in the capture of Italian law-breakers recently.

Justice Cortese died at midnight from his injuries. He had been home to supper this evening, leaving his son Robert in charge of the office. It was the younger man who had received the infernal machine, which came from Newark, and was delivered by an American Express wagon. It had been prepaid and the boy accepted it. When Judge Cortese reached the office Robert handed the package to him. The outside wrapper was of paper, tied with strong twine. Judge Cortese removed this paper. Inside was another wrapping made fast with straps, such as boys use to put around school books. Robert says he watched curiously to see what the little box contained.

His father rested the package on his desk and pulled the end of the strap toward him so as to loosen the tongue of the buckle. The moment he did so there was an explosion. A hole six feet square was torn in the floor, and the desk was driven down into the cellar and torn to pieces. The boy was hurled into a corner and seriously bruised and burned. Judge Cortese was found between the doorway and the hole in the floor. Both legs and both arms were broken, his face and body were torn and lacerated, and his back apparently broken. Some of the flesh was torn from the bones. He was removed to St. Joseph's hospital, where his antemortem statement was secured.

Judge Cortese had been a justice for 12 years. He was shortly to be appointed a sergeant of detectives in recognition of active work as a detective in aiding the police in running Italian and other criminals down.

Only a short time ago he sent a foreigner who had robbed his father of $1,500, and caught him in a Pennsylvania town. He brought him back here and the man was sent to state prison for 15 years. Two others were concerned in the robbery, but had not been located.

Cortese had a wife and eight children. [illegible] the greatest force of the explosion was directed downward. It is believed the infernal machine was filled with dynamite. Not a trace of the machine has been found.

Another case which the police think may have some bearing upon the affair is that of a well-to-do foreigner, who was found dead under mysterious circumstances a couple of weeks ago. Cortese aided the authorities in investigating that affair.

It is believed that the sender of the machine sought revenge on the justice as a result of the latter's activities.

DECREE IS POSTPONED

INCREASE OF CUBAN RURAL GUARD DEFERRED.

Objections to Plan General Among Natives—Anti-American Sentiment Is High.

HAVANA, Feb. 8.—Governor Magoon received a cablegram from Secretary Taft today directing the postponement of the decree providing for an increase from 6,000 to 12,000 men for the Cuban rural guard, pending presentation of the protests by the Liberals. Objections to the plan of increase were voiced at a meeting attended by a number of army officers. Gen. Enrique Loynaz Del Castillo bitterly denounced the United States and predicted that the Cubans eventually would be compelled to resist American domination, when the speaker hoped he would have the honor of leading the patriotic army.

States and predicted that the Cubans eventually would be compelled to resist American domination, when the speaker hoped he would have the honor of leading the patriotic army.

General Estoñez, a prominent colored leader, was the only speaker to approve the proposed increase, but he demanded recognition of negroes in the ranks of the army and intimated that the negroes were prepared to fight for their political rights.

The meeting adopted resolutions protesting against any increase in the armed force, the formation of a militia of any kind and the constitution of an army of other than native Cubans. General Del Castello predicted an influx of American immigrants which, he declared, would result in the Americanization of the rural guard and consequent military oppression of the Cubans. Throughout the entire meeting anti-American sentiment prevailed. A protest was made against imposing upon Cuba the burden of maintaining this proposed standing army.

WITH FREE MINDS

CALIFORNIANS REACH THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

WILL LEND EARS TO REASON

ALL STAND READY TO MAKE REASONABLE CONCESSIONS.

SCHMITZ DISCUSSES MATTER

San Francisco Party Will Meet President Roosevelt and Secretaries Root, Taft and Metcalf in Conference on Japanese Question Today.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Mayor Schmitz and the school board of San Francisco, who were summoned here to discuss the Japanese school question with President Roosevelt, arrived in Washington at 5:35 o'clock this afternoon. Their train was 24 hours late. The delegation will be received by the president tomorrow morning.

Will Make Concessions.

Mayor Schmitz said:

"We have come to Washington with a free mind to discuss the school question with President Roosevelt. The mere fact that we have responded to the president's invitation is sufficient evidence that we stand ready to make concessions if we are convinced that in so doing the entire country will profit by our action. No Californian is willing to stand on any technicality that will work to the detriment of the nation.

"It would be unfair for us to go into a full and free discussion of the questions involved until we have conferred with Mr. Roosevelt. We have not excluded the Japanese children from the schools of San Francisco, but since the fire the school board has found it necessary to adopt the policy of segregation, not exclusion, in the primary and intermediate departments. The law of California makes the question of segregation discretionary with the school boards in the various towns and cities of the state. The law reads that the schools authorities 'may' segregate the children of the white and Mongolian races and requires that when the separate schools have been established the children of the two races must attend the schools set apart for them.

Crowding White Children Out.

"After the fire we found that the Japanese were crowding the white children out of the schools and the only course to take was to take advantage of the state law and establish Japanese schools, and this we did. That is the whole story in a nutshell."

When asked as to how the Japanese children could be admitted to the white schools, if the delegation agree to make the concessions which the president will ask, Mayor Schmitz replied:

"That would be simple enough. We would abolish the Oriental schools and then under our law, the enforcement [illegible] discretion of the school board, the Japanese would then be entitled to admission to the white schools."

The San Francisco delegation consists of Mayor E. E. Schmitz, L. F. Walsh, president of the board of education, A. Altman, Thomas Boyle, D. Oliver, Jr., members of the board; Alfred Roncovieri, superintendent of schools; L. F. Leffingwell, secretary of the board, and T. J. Williams, assistant city attorney.

Representative Hayes, as a member of the delegation, has arranged with Secretary Root for the delegation to meet the president tomorrow. Secretaries Root, Taft and Metcalf will participate in the conference.

Understanding Regarding Coolies.

While the Californians profess that they are of a "free mind" and willing to make concessions, it can be stated on the highest authority that the delegation's purpose is to insist that the president must have a direct understanding with the Tokio government for the exclusion of Japanese coolies before they will agree to abolish the Oriental schools of San Francisco and admit the Japanese children to the white schools.

Representative Hayes tonight declared that if the "favored nation clause" is carried to a logical conclusion, Jamaican negroes, as subjects of Great Britain, has a right to come to this country and demand that their children be admitted to the white schools in any state where separate schools are maintained.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Isidore Jacobs of San Francisco, president of the California Canneries company, chairman of the executive committee of the Commercial Manufacturers association of San Francisco, was in Chicago tonight on his way to Washington. There he will oppose Mayor Eugene Schmitz and the board of education of San Francisco in their efforts to have the Japanese segregated from American school children of that city. Mr. Jacobs said he represented the manufacturing and commercial interests of San Francisco, and that all the commercial organizations are a unit in opposing the stand taken by the board of education in the matter of the Japanese.

Mr. Jacobs is a cousin of Oscar S. Straus, secretary of commerce and labor, and says he will do all he can to preserve friendly commercial relations between the United States and Japan.

KILLED BY SNOWSLIDE

ALMA, Colo., Feb. 8.—L. D. Monson, manager of the Clipper mine, was killed by a snowslide yesterday which came down the side of Mosquito range between Alma and Leadville. The body was recovered. Monson was 35 years of age and had a wife in Denver.

NO NEED OF AN INCREASE

Government Employes Well Paid, Says Payne—No Raise This Session.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Chairman Payne of the house ways and means committee after a visit to the president today, expressed the opinion that there was no chance at this session of congress of the enactment of legislation in congress for the increase of government [illegible] bill now before congress. He declared that there was no need of a blanket increase of salaries, and that as the rule the government employes were amply paid.

In response to the suggestion that as congress had increased the pay of its own members the government employes felt that their salaries might also be increased, Mr. Payne laughingly remarked that the former have no chance of promotion, while the employes have.

SHOT BY U. S. SOLDIERS

Only One Witness Before Penrose Court Yesterday.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 8.—H. Y. Dominguez, lieutenant of Brownsville police, was the only witness before the Penrose court-martial this afternoon. He testified that his horse was shot under him and his arms so seriously wounded by a bullet as to necessitate amputation the following day. When asked the direct question he declared that he had been shot by government soldiers. He said the firing came from the federal reservation. He saw several squads of men dressed in khaki trousers and blue shirts.

QUESTIONS AUTHORITY

MONDELL ATTACKS ACT WITHDRAWING LAND.

Aside from Right of Department, Wisdom or Necessity of Withdrawal Is Questioned.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—"The Limitations of Federal Authority" was the subject of a speech delivered today in the house by Mr. Mondell of Wyoming, which dealt especially with the withdrawal of local lands from entry.

He stated he had no thought of impugning the motives of any executive officer in connection with the withdrawals, but that this was not a question as to the good faith of public officials nor of the wisdom of land laws, but of the authority of the executive departments to modify, amend and annul acts of congress. Mr. Mondell stated that to remain silent in the presence of the far-reaching effect of suspension of the land laws might be construed into an acquiescence in their validity and if not challenged, these acts will be cited as precedents for further extension of the executive power in suspending the operations of laws. He contended that while the question of authority for these acts was the most important one, in view of the great injury that had been done settlers and those seeking to develop the west, and which would inevitably follow the suspension of land laws over large areas, the question of wisdom or necessity for these wholesale withdrawals and suspensions also was important.

He declared it would have been neither wise nor necessary to issue the orders in question, even had there been authority for so doing, and pointed out that while 64,000,000 acres in the states and all of Alaska had been withdrawn, the government had only disposed of 400,000 acres under the coal laws in 34 years. In view of these facts, he suggested that even had it been within the authority of the interior department to do so, there could be no warrant in withdrawing from coal entry over 1,500 times more coal land than was entered last year. At the rate of last year's sales, it would take over 1,500 years to dispose of the coal lands which had been withdrawn from entry, not taking into consideration the millions of acres in Alaska. Hence, he contended, there was little disposition to suggest that the government coal land would be gobbled up in the immediate future if not withdrawn.

DEMENTED WOMAN SUICIDES

Mrs. Mary E. Neff of Denver Dies by Her Own Hand at Victor.

Special to The Gazette.

VICTOR, Feb. 8.—Mrs. Mary E. Neff, aged [illegible] years, committed suicide today in a vacant coal house on South Sixth street, between Meyer and Lee avenues, by shooting herself through the head with a 38-calibre revolver. The body was found by some boys who were playing in the vicinity.

Mrs. Neff came here one week ago today from Denver on account of the illness of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Babcock, who died later at her home at Santa Rita. Mrs. Neff was said to be slightly demented.

The woman has a husband in Denver, but they were not living together. A son lives somewhere in Texas.

ENTOMBED MINERS WILL DIE

Seven Men Are Held in Lower Lift of Pennsylvania Mine by Fierce Fire on Higher Level.

WILKES BARRE, Pa., Feb. 8.—Seven miners are entombed in No. [illegible] colliery of the Lehigh and Wilkes Barre Coal company at Wanamie, and miners acquainted with the workings of the mine say there is little hope of rescuing any of them. Fire broke out on the fourth lift of the shaft, and the entombed men, who are caught in the lower lifts, cannot be reached until the flames are extinguished. The fire is burning fiercely and has gained such headway that it may require many hours fighting before the flames are subdued.

HEARING FINISHED

DECISION NOT EXPECTED UNTIL NEXT WEEK.

ARBITRATORS DELIBERATING

AWARD OF BOARD WILL BE EAGERLY AWAITED.

CITY PROBABLY WILL WIN

Belief Is Expressed That Just Claim Against Hydro-Electric Company Has Been Established—Schuyler Makes a Surprising Contention.

The hearing of the Hydro-city controversy, which has been in progress before the board of arbitration in the city council chamber since February 1, was concluded last night, with final arguments by counsel on both sides. A decision is not expected before the middle of next week.

Attorney Schuyler for the Hydro company sprung the startling contention that the city is estopped from any claim because it accepted and paid for, for a period of 15 months prior to May 31, 1906, the present system of lights. He based his claim that the city has accepted the light system on a conference, in 1905, between six aldermen and the mayor on one side, and the Hydro officials on the other. City Attorney Robinson claims that this was not an official act of the council.

Owing to the difference of construction by the opposing counsel in the Hydro controversy, placed upon the very form of agreement, which is the basic feature of the arbitration, the dissension between the city and the Hydro company as to the interpretation of the terms of the Jackson franchise, has crept into the acceptance of the form of agreement itself, and the arbitrators are in practically the same position as when the hearing started.

This problem suddenly presented itself almost at the close of the arguments of the counsel yesterday evening and will present a pretty puzzle for the board. The hearing, however, is ended. The evidence closed yesterday noon with the rebuttal evidence of Professor J. C. Shedd and Dr. Louis Bell, for the city, and W. D. A. Ryan for the Hydro company. Arguments by attorneys were heard from 3 until 7 o'clock. City Attorney W. D. Robinson occupied one and one-quarter hours in opening. Attorney Karl C. Schuyler took two hours for his argument and the city attorney devoted the remaining three-quarters of an hour to his closing argument.

Conflicting Constructions.

In addition to the conflicting constructions of the terms of agreement another point advanced by Attorney Schuyler is that the city is estopped from any claim in the premises, because of the fact that it has accepted and paid for during a period of fully 15 months, the present system of street arc lights, and that it has no redress in the matter. Furthermore, according to the Hydro attorney, the act of six members of the city council in meeting with the mayor and President Taft of the Pike's Peak Hydro-Electric company during the year 1905, and their acceptance of the change from the former 9.6 ampere open arc lamp to the present 6.6 ampere inclosed lamp, binds the city to agree to the present system.

Attorney Robinson answered this with the argument that the act of individual members of the council is not binding, as is the majority vote of the members at a regularly called and official meeting of the council.

Included in the city attorney's argument was the point that the city received no benefit from the franchise, but the free light furnished in the city hall. The Hydro lawyer, however, claimed that the city benefited materially from the fact that its water system was enlarged and improved by the installation by the Hydro company of large water mains, conduits, etc., and also laid stress on the fact that the franchise provides for the reversion to the city of the company's improvements in a certain number of years.

City Has Just Claim.

It can be authentically announced that the three members of the board of arbitration have practically agreed that the city has a just claim against the Hydro owing to their understanding that the former 9.6 open arc lamp was intended by the terms of the Jackson franchise, and that such award will be made, unless further investigation proves the correctness of the claim of Attorney Schuyler that the city is completely estopped from all claim.

The arbitrators will probably be advised by legal counsel as to the question of the city being estopped from claim against the Hydro. The abstract of evidence, which is three days behind now, will not be completed until Monday at the earliest, and the decision of the arbitrators is not expected for several days thereafter.

The award of the board, if in favor of the city, will be a complex question. On what shall they base their decision, on candle power or wattage? City Attorney Robinson claims that candle power is the basis, and Attorney Schuyler maintains stoutly that wattage shall comprise the unit of shortage, if such shortage be found to exist. The kernel of the entire matter, the fundamental point of the controversy, is thus carried into the interpretation of the form of agreement.

Candle Power the Basis.

The form of agreement, after reciting that the city has paid to the Hydro

BASEBALL SEASON ON

COLORADO COLLEGE TIGERS VS. CUTLER ACADEMY.

First Game of Year at Washburn Field This Afternoon—Both Teams in Fine Condition.

With the game between the Colorado college Tigers and Cutler academy last year interscholastic baseball champions of Colorado the baseball season in Colorado Springs will be ushered in this afternoon at o'clock on Washburn field. There will be no admission fee. The game is important from the fact that it will partially determine the personnel of both the college and academy teams. For the last two weeks the players have been practicing steadily under the direction of Coach Falk and a fast game is assured. While the Tigers have been showing up splendidly at practice the academy boys will certainly keep the score this afternoon from being very uneven. As a base ball team the Cutler academy nine has in former years proved itself a dangerous competitor for the college teams.

Ackley will do the twirling act for the Tigers. Cherry has been showing up well during the last week and will assist Ackley in the box. He throws a fast ball and has several fine curves under almost perfect control. In all probability he will win his way in the pitcher's box this season. Travis will hold down first and Mitchell will be behind the bat. Captain Tegtmeyer will play his old-time game at short and Schmidt will protect third. Jack and John will divide the honors at second. The field will be well taken care of. Morris at right field, Montgomery Smith and Siddons at center. McCreery of last year's team, Anderson and Hyder in left field. Among the new men Hyder is a wing up among the leaders. He is a strong batter and a fine outfielder. McCreery is improving at the bat but is a little weak in the catch. The contest for left field will be closer than for any other position on the team.

Graham, Cutler's star pitcher, will be in the box for the academy and Coombs will be behind the bat. Thostesen a new man will be in left field. C Coombs will be at third. Kurrie at second. Lockhart of last year's team will be at first and Captain McRae will supervise the game from short. Gile, Downey, Holden, Saunders, Jones, Whiting, Platford, Littlefield and C Jackson will be given a try out in the field.

The line-up as given by Coach Falk is as follows:

Colorado College		Cutler Academy
Ackley, Cherry	p	Graham
Mitchell	c	F. Coombs
Travis	1 b	Lockhart
Jackson, Johns	2 b	Kurrie
Schmidt	3 b	C. Coombs
Tegtmeyer (Capt.)	s s	McRae (Capt.)

EXPLOSION ON TORPEDO BOAT

Nine Are Killed and Two Injured as Vessel in French Navy Is Being Tested

LORIENTE, France, Feb. 8—As a result of an explosion on board torpedo boat No. 339 of the French navy today nine men are dead and two are injured. Torpedo boat No. 339 was launched but a short time ago and at the time of the accident she was under going prior to being placed in commission her full power steam trial in the roads. [illegible] was on board at the time. The trial was successful but as the boat was returning to her anchorage a safety tube forming part of the evaporating apparatus burst and a mass of flame was forced into the stoke hold when the engineer, a quartermaster and nine stokers were at work. The engineer and eight of the stokers were instantly burned to death. Their bodies were practically reduced to cinders. The other stoker was severely injured.

The reason for the accident is that the automatic doors that should have closed to prevent the return of the flames to the stokehole did not work.

GANS-LEWIS MATCH IS OFF

Latter Dissatisfied With Proposed Division of Purse

PHILADELPHIA Feb. 8—Joe Gans tonight announced that his match with Harry Lewis had been declared off. Gans says that Lewis was not satisfied with the division of the purse which was arranged on the basis of 75 and 25 per cent when the preliminary agreement was signed. He says Lewis now wants the purse divided on a basis of 60 and 40 per cent.

WANAMAKER HOUSE DESTOYED

Country Home of Philadelphia Merchant Valued at Over a Million Burns to the Ground

PHILADELPHIA Feb. 8—The country home of John Wanamaker at Chelton Hills near Jenkintown was destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $[illegible].

Mr. Wanamaker's home was considered one of the most artistic and valuable of Philadelphia suburban homes. It consists of thirty acres of ground. The Wanamaker art gallery contained some of the best prints and most valuable paintings in existence.

The Wanamakers have been at their winter home here and the country place was in charge of a caretaker.

The fire made rapid progress a few valuable paintings being almost the only things saved. Among these were Christ Before Pilate and Christ on Calvary by Munkacsy valued at $250,000.

Though no statement has been issued from Mr. Wanamaker as to the loss it is authoritatively stated that it will reach at least $1,000,000. The house cost $1,000,000 and it contained a collection of furniture, bric-a-brac, tapestries and paintings which Mr. and Mrs. Wanamaker have been forty years in collecting.

PLAY FOR FEBRUARY CUP

First of Series of Weekly Golf Matches at Town and Gown Club This Afternoon

Play for the February golf cup will begin on the links of the Town and Gown club this afternoon. There will be about [illegible] entries in the first match. The play will continue each Saturday afternoon during the month the player making the highest net score being declared the winner of the cup.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather the matches scheduled for last Saturday were not played. This afternoon if the weather is favorable the chasers of the little gutta percha ball will try their luck for the cup. The course will be for 18 holes and the play is open to regular or monthly members. Entries must be made as usual but it is not necessary for a player to play each Saturday during the month. A contestant playing one Saturday has the same chance to win as those who play each Saturday as only net scores and not totals will be counted.

A new cup will be offered each month. These tournaments will be held to stimulate interest in golfing in Colorado Springs.

G. DICKENSON WINS GAME

Takes First Place in Second of Series of Four Golf Matches for the Junior Cup

By defeating Morgan Speigel by a score of 3 up and 2 to play on the Town and Gown links yesterday afternoon George Dickenson won the second of a series of four golf matches for the Junior cup offered by E. J. Ullrich. The first match was won in October by Edgar Ullrich. The cup is to be played for four times each year. Yesterday's match was intensely interesting. The next play for the cup will be held in March.

In the first round of the second play for the cup the results were as follows:

Jack DeWitt won from Ronald Ullrich by default.

George Dickenson won from Washington Pastorii 1 up.

Morgan Speigel won from Wharton Allen 1 up.

Curtis Allen won from John Work 1 up.

The results in the semifinals were:

George Dickenson won from Jack DeWitt 1 up.

Morgan Speigel won from Curtis Allen 2 up and 1 to play.

Dickenson defeated Speigel by 3 up and 2 to play in the finals.

HEARING FINISHED

company $19,940.77 and claims $16,352.21 in rebate, goes on to say: "In case such computation should prove not to be exact, the money claim so submitted to arbitration is for the difference between the amount which the city should have paid for the street lights furnished during the period in question and the amount which the city did pay, said claim to be determined by the difference in candle power between the lights so furnished and the lights required by section 8 of the ordinance."

Attorney Robinson points to the above paragraph in the form of agreement, which has been signed by both the mayor and city clerk, in behalf of the city of Colorado Springs, and by the president and secretary of the Hydro company, representing that corporation.

Attorney Schuyler, on the other hand, argues that the paragraph does not come under the agreement proper between the city and the Hydro company, but is included in the form of agreement to show the contention of the city, and apparent substantiation is given in the opening words of the preceding paragraph, which are: "A—The party of the first part (the city) claims," etc. The city attorney, however, is sustained by the fact that following the opening words, appears the claim, in figures, of the city, and the second paragraph can be construed as more closely incorporated with the articles of agreement, proper, than with the preceding clause, which opens with a statement of the city's claims.

A Puzzling Question.

The technical terms of the expert electrical witnesses has not proven so puzzling to the arbitrators as the two simple points raised during yesterday's arguments. Does the clause, "said claim to be determined by the difference in the candle-power," come under the heading of "The party of the first part claims," or is it a part fundamental of the form of agreement itself. The arbitrators appear inclined to favor the city's stand in the matter, since the form of agreement, in black and white, is signed by both parties to the controversy.

The other point, and one which may possibly snatch victory from the city, is that raised by Attorney Schuyler to the effect that the city is stopped from all claim, owing to its acceptance and payment therefor, of the present system of street lights, since February 15, 1905. This question will be gone into fully by the arbitrators.

Both the city and the Hydro appear fully satisfied with the attitude of the board during the hearing. The attitude of the entire board throughout has been that of absolute fairness and impartiality.

The argument of both attorneys yesterday afternoon comprised a brilliant and forceful review of the array of facts as presented in the evidence during the hearing, each lawyer marshaling to his aid those points brought forth in favor of his side.

City Attorney Speaks.

Attorney Robinson opened for the city. He pointed out that both the city council which enacted the Jackson franchise in 1898, and Contractor Jackson, to whom the franchise was granted, (neither side looking at the matter from an electrical standpoint) signed the contract with the idea that the actual light of the city arc lights should be of 2,000 candlepower. He brought out the fact that the first draft of the franchise, originally read, as revealed by the use of a microscope, "2,000-candlepower, as commercially known." The changing of this phraseology, to the wording "standard 2,000-candlepower," conclusively shows, according to Judge Robinson, that the literal interpretation of the clause is intended, in sharp contrast to the "commercially known," or trade-term, originally incorporated in the franchise. The arbitrators will get a clearer insight into the matter by reading the entire franchise, if they have not already done so, said the city attorney.

"It was light that was meant, and light measured by candlepower," said the attorney, and this is the crux of his argument. He also maintained that, even figuring on the Hydro's basis, a lamp of 450-watt consumption was indicated, and claimed that the arc lights of the city consumed only about 450 watts, up to last September, since which time additional power has been used. This additional power, used on 450-watt lamps, according to the city attorney, has necessitated the overloading of the city lamps, this being accomplished by pulling the lamp carbons farther apart.

Schuyler Talks.

Attorney Schuyler made three principal points in his argument. He claimed that, since the old style 9.6 ampere lamp, consuming 450 watts, was then in use, this type of lamp, consuming 450 watts, was indicated, and that the average 450-watt consuming lamp comes up to the standard. His third point embraced the startling announcement that the city is estopped from all claim in the matter, because it accepted, in the 1906 meeting of six councilmen and the mayor, with the Hydro officials, the present 6.6 ampere lamp, and also because the light service from this lamp was paid for during the 15 months following the installation of the new lamp.

The two attorneys also argued on the old subject of the various points of the respective lamps. Judge Robinson upheld the superiority of the former open arc device, while Attorney Schuyler upheld the superiority of the present inclosed arc. Mr. Schuyler also clung to the action of the six aldermen and the mayor, in accepting the present [illegible] ago, as binding on the part of the city, while the city attorney pointed out that only formal action by a regularly assembled council could ratify the transaction.

Dr. Bell Explains.

During the introduction of testimony in rebuttal yesterday morning, Dr. Bell was asked by the Hydro attorney to explain a quotation in a book written by himself, as follows:

"When an individual or a municipality contracts for a 2,000 candle power arc light, the thing bought, received and paid for is an arc light taking about 450 watts of electrical energy, and such is the general understanding of the term as interpreted at various times by the courts. There is not, nor, has there ever been, in common use in this country, or elsewhere an arc lighting system using lamps actually giving anywhere near 2,000 candle power."

The explanation was asked for in view of his previous statement that the Jackson franchise demanded lamps other than the ones now in use. Dr. Bell explained the apparent discrepancy between his testimony and the quotation from his book, by the fact that the old style 9.6 ampere, open arc light, direct current, was indicated in his book, this style of lamp being the only one in general use.

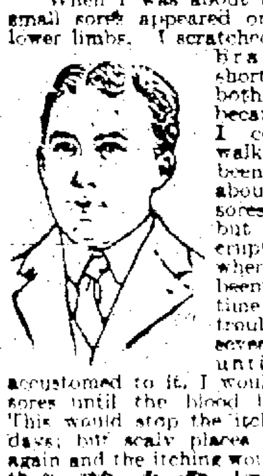

Mr. Ryan, when placed on the stand, admitted that he has never made lamp tests by the double mirror method (as used by Prof. C. P. Matthews, the city's witness), because "that system was no good." The city attorney then asked Mr. Ryan if he ever knew of the 6.6 ampere, inclosed lamp being substituted for a 9.6 open arc system, in a contract. Mr. Schuyler objected, and after a war of words, the city attorney won out and Mr. Ryan admitted that he could not recall any specific case.

The arbitrators will meet with Attorneys Schuyler and Robinson in the council chamber at 9 o'clock this morning, to gather all data, manuscripts and evidence of all kind. The board will also discuss the policy to be followed in considering the evidence.

SCALY ERUPTIONS COVERED HIS BODY

Itched Constantly—Scratched Until Blood Flowed—Suffered 10 Years—Doctors and Medicines Were Fruitless—Tries Cuticura and Is Completely Cured

BY THREE BOXES OF CUTICURA OINTMENT

"When I was about nine years old small sores appeared on each of my lower limbs. I scratched them with a brass pin and shortly afterwards both of those limbs became so sore that I could scarcely walk. When I had been suffering for about a month the sores began to heal, but small scaly eruptions appeared where the sores had been. From that time onward I was troubled by such severe itching that, until I became accustomed to it, I would scratch the sores until the blood began to flow. This would stop the itching for a few days; but scaly places would appear again and the itching would accompany them. After I suffered about ten years I made a renewed effort to effect a cure. The eruptions by this time had appeared on every part of my body except my face and hands. The best doctor in my native county advised me to use arsenic in small doses and a salve. I then used to bathe the sores in a mixture which gave almost intolerable pain. In addition I used other remedies, such as iodine, sulphur, zinc salve, ——'s Salve, —— Ointment, and in fact I was continually giving some remedy a fair trial, never using less than one or two boxes or bottles. All this was fruitless. Finally my hair began to fall out and I was rapidly becoming bald. I used ——'s ——, but it did no good. A few months after, having used almost everything else, I thought I would try Cuticura Ointment, having previously used Cuticura Soap and being pleased with it. After using three boxes I was completely cured, and my hair was restored, after fourteen years of suffering and an expenditure of at least $50 to $60 in vainly endeavoring to find a cure. I shall be glad to write to any one who may be interested in my cure. B. Hiram Mattingly, Vermillion, S. Dak., Aug. 15, 1906."

HIGH WATER IS RECEDING

Conditions in the Northwest Greatly Improved.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 8.—Reports from many points in the Willamette valley show that the highwater is receding and at Portland a steady fall is not impossible. The first train to leave Portland for the east over the Oregon Railroad and Navigation in five days departed tonight. The railroad officials report the company's loss through washouts, damage to the roadway and loss of traffic at $500,000. Southern Pacific trains are moving on almost normal schedule. There is still some delay on the Northern Pacific.

CONTINUES STORY

was asked Mrs. Thaw to tell what she had told Mr. Thaw of her acquaintance with the actor.

She said she had first met Barrymore at a party given by Stanford White. She, after following his introduction to the [illegible]. "I thought him very nice," she said frankly, "and one day at Mr. White's studio he said, 'Evelyn, will you marry me?' I said, 'I don't know.'

"He asked me a second time, and again I said: 'I don't know.'"

"And everybody laughed. Mr. White told me I would be very foolish to marry Mr. Barrymore, and my mother said so, too, and we quarreled, and the upshot of the whole thing was that Mr. White said I ought to be sent away to school and I was, to New Jersey. After leading the witness to tell in chronological order, of the incidents of her wedding with Thaw in Pittsburg, Mr. Delmas asked her if she had seen Stanford White after her return to New York from her honeymoon trip.

Thaw Excited to Anger.

"I passed Stanford White one day on Fifth avenue. I was in a cab and he saw me and I heard him say 'Evelyn,' just like that," and Mrs. Thaw raised her voice as though to call someone. "I went back to our hotel and told Harry and he said, 'The dirty blackguard. He had no right to speak to you.' The next time I saw him I was driving to Dr. Delavan's office to have my throat treated. Stanford White was also in a cab. He just stared at me this time and stroked his mustache. I turned into 33d street and as I alighted at the doctor's door, I saw Stanford White coming. I rang the bell and the maid came to the door and then I got so nervous and flustered and I told her I would come back again and I ran down the steps, got into the cab and drove to the hotel, where I told Harry what had happened. He got very excited and bit his nails."

These were were the only two instances Mrs. Thaw said that she had told her husband that Stanford White had approached her or attempted to speak to her.

There was another great crowd in the court room today, every available bit of space being occupied. The dramatic thrills of the day before were not there, however. The day began with a continuance of the reading of the letters from Harry Thaw to Mr. Longfellow, written after Evelyn Nesbit's revelations to her suitor in Paris. There were others, too, which Thaw had sent the attorney to deliver to Miss Nesbit, who at the time would not see him.

Mrs. Thaw followed these with a relation of her experiences with Stanford White and Abraham Hummel, concerning the alleged affidavit which she made charging Harry Thaw with having taken her from her mother against her will, and with gross cruelty. Mrs. Thaw told how she had been induced to answer some questions about herself and Mr. Thaw at the time and had been told the stories about his cruelties to girls. Stanford White had told her, she declared, that it was necessary to take drastic measures to protect her from such a person and that Harry Thaw must be kept out of New York. She denied ever signing any papers in Hummel's office, but said she remembered having signed some papers for Mr. White in "his offices," the contents of which she did not know. When she got frightened about the papers and demanded to see them, she said Mr. White took her to Hummel's office and there they burned a paper which had her name at the bottom of it. She was not allowed to see what the paper contained before it was destroyed.

Story Amusing at Times.

Mrs. Thaw's story was made amusing at times by her interjections of the names which Harry Thaw had applied to the lawyer and Mr. White's agitated questioning as to what she had told Hummel about him. She declared that she had told the lawyer nothing.

"'Well,' Mr. White said to me, 'there is wrong somewhere. He has just squeezed another thousand dollars out of me and the Lord only knows how soon he will squeeze another.' I then remembered having told Mr. Hummel, when he threatened things about Mr. Thaw, that he had better be careful, for Mr. Thaw knew a lot of terrible things about Stanford White."

The defense endeavored to get in evidence today the wills of Harry Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, executed the night of their wedding in Pittsburg. There were so many interlineations, additions and erasures that Justice Fitzgerald held that the documents were not admissible until the changes were proved. Mr. Delmas said he would later endeavor to do this, as the wills and the interlineations and a codicil by Harry Thaw, had to do with the proof tending to show the insanity of the defendant. It came out in the discussion of the wills that the name of Stanford White occurred in Thaw's testament.

Conjecture Only.

Mrs. Thaw will go on with her direct examination Monday morning. Just what will be the nature of District Attorney Jerome's cross-examination when he takes the witness is mere conjecture. It is said he may try in some way to attack her credibility, probably as to her ability to remember other things as well as she has the stories she has declared she told Harry Thaw from time to time.

After relating the Abraham Hummel incident the witness was asked by Mr. Delmas how far that the way she was treated by Mr. Thaw until he had proposed marriage. Mrs. Thaw replied:

"He treated me very nicely, carried me up and down stairs when I was sick, and brought me flowers and took me carriage riding."

After her marriage with Mr. Thaw, the witness said, she took a trip through the west. While in Pittsburg she said she lived at the home of her husband's mother. She related how she had persistently refused to marry Thaw before she finally did.

"What reason did you give him for not marrying him?"

"It was because of my reputation. I did not want to separate him from his family. I knew it would be a good thing for me to marry him, but it would not be for him. It was because I loved him that I would not marry. If I did not love him much I might have been anxious to marry him."

Mr. Delmas got the witness to relate how she met some of the Thaw family in Europe.

Changed Her Mind.

"There was something happened which led you to change your mind in regard to marrying Thaw?" asked Mr. Delmas.

"Yes," answered the young woman.

"You were given to believe that his family would receive you as his wife?"

"Yes."

"Did you meet Mrs. Thaw, his mother, in New York?"

"I did."

"After your marriage did you visit New York from Pittsburg?"

"We did."

It was after the Barrymore episode had been related that the most dramatic feature of the day occurred. It first came in the form of a protest by District Attorney Jerome of the defamation of the dead, when "other young girls" had been referred to by Delmas in his questioning of the witness.

"I appeal to your honor," said Mr. Jerome, "that this has gone far enough. Are there no limits to which the defamation of the dead may go? The prosecution has no chance to controvert one word of this testimony and Stanford White is dead."

"Your honor," replied Mr. Delmas, "we contend that in proving the state of this man's mind we have the undoubted right to introduce evidence which tends to show that fresh fuel was added to the fire in things the defendant heard from other sources. We will produce documentary evidence executed by Thaw himself showing his condition. I have no more desire to defame the dead than the living, and I believe my conduct of this examination has shown this. I have no desire to say one word against the memory of Stanford White that my duty does not compel me to say. My duty is to the living."

To this Mr. Jerome replied:

"So far we have not the slightest evidence to show that the defendant was ever of unsound mind in his life. I submit that this is a matter which comes well within the discretion of the court. If there is evidence of the insanity of the defendant, it should be introduced now, before this loose tattle of the Tenderloin goes on, tattle that under the law we are not allowed to controvert."

Court Takes Hand.

Justice Fitzgerald said:

"If the court has any discretion in this matter it is anxious to exercise it. The suggestion of the district attorney seems a good one. I would suggest that this is the proper time for the introduction of the evidence counsel refers to."

Justice Fitzgerald then explained to the jury the law, which, in cases where insanity is pleaded as a defense, prevents the prosecution from controverting any statements which have been made to this effect, whether true or not. Mr. Delmas then introduced a number of papers.

Harry Thaw's Will

Among several handed to the witness to identify was Harry Thaw's will, in which he is said to have left all his property to his wife.

Mrs. Thaw identified the handwriting of the defendant on the papers. Mr. Jerome went over them with the witness in whispers.

A full half hour was consumed in the examination of the papers, which finally were marked as exhibits. Mrs. Thaw then was excused temporarily, to allow Miss Frances E. Pierce to be called to identify her signature as a witness to the papers.

It developed from Miss Pierce's testimony that one of these papers was the will of Evelyn Thaw. Both wills were executed the day of Harry Thaw's marriage in Pittsburg. Miss Pierce said on cross examination she did not know whether all the matter in the wills was in them when she appended her name. She simply witnessed the signatures of Thaw and his wife.

"And this reference to Stanford White; your don't know whether it was in the paper at the time you signed it or not?" said Mr. Jerome.

"No, sir."

Mr. Jerome declared the wills had many interlineations, additions, etc., in various handwriting. He thought all these changes should be proved before the papers were received in evidence. Justice Fitzgerald upheld the objection and ruled the wills out.

Mr. Delmas argued that the document was admissible, because the pages were fastened together with the signature on the last page.

Jerome Objects

Mr. Jerome said this was not sufficient identification. Justice Fitzgerald stated that the identification was not complete and Mr. Delmas then offered only the last page in evidence. Mr. Jerome again objected. Miss Pierce could not positively identify even that page. Justice Fitzgerald ruled that as the will was to be used to show the unsound mind of the defendant it must be positively shown that it was in the same condition as when signed.

He repeatedly sustained Jerome's objections. Mr. Delmas stating he was not prepared to offer further evidence on the wills then, had Mrs. Thaw recalled and asked her again if Mr. Thaw constantly discussed with her, up to June 25, 1906, the fate of other young girls "similar to your fate with White," and asked if in these discussions the defendant's manner was rational or irrational.

Mr. Jerome objected to the question as leading, and was sustained.

Other Girls' Fate.

"Did Mr. Thaw discuss with you the fate of any one?"

"Yes."

"Did he mention the names of one or more young girls?"

Here Jerome said he must again object on the ground that this testimony was permissible only as tending to prove insanity, and as yet there was no evidence that the defendant is or was insane. Mr. Jerome said there seemed to be "no end of these Tenderloin tales brought here to smudge the memory of him who is dead."

"If we haven't been showing the insanity of this defendant ever since yesterday morning, what have we been doing?" asked Mr. Delmas.

"I admit that I could have objected yesterday," said District Attorney Jerome, "but I did not do so then because I thought we would have to have some of this sort of testimony in, but I did not suppose that we were going into the gossip of the tenderloin for several years. I know you can force it, Mr. Delmas, if you want to, but the court has the right to direct in which order it is put in."

"I admit that right in the court," replied Mr. Delmas, "but it was owing to the fact that no objection was made that there has been no better foundation made up to this time. As to the remarks of the learned district attorney regarding gossip of the tenderloin, I am unable to understand his meaning, but I suppose it refers to some disreputable section of the city. I can only say, sir, if you had accepted the will which this defendant signed on the night of his wedding and the codicil in his own hand, you would understand what an impression these stories made on his mind.

"The court has repeatedly told the jury that this is not gossip of the tenderloin we have been putting in evidence, but the story this girl related to her husband at the time he first asked her to become his wife, and the subsequent events in the life of these two young people.

"If the court feels it is necessary for us to lay a broader foundation we will proceed to do so as soon as possible. In the meantime, I will ask that adjournment now be taken until Monday morning."

The adjournment was ordered at 3:40.

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 8.—A representative of District Attorney Jerome of New York, came to the court house here and secured a transcript of the evidence of Dr. Evans of the Morris Plains Insane asylum, which was given at the trial of Dr. John H. Boynon, who was convicted six years ago of shooting George E. Campbell. The defense claimed Boynon was insane when he committed the act.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—The newspapers of Paris are devoting much space to the proceedings of the Thaw trial in New York, and as a result a number of persons are coming forward anxious to testify to Thaw's escapades in Paris, which, they declare, can only be explained on the ground that he was insane.

A woman from whom Thaw rented an apartment in this city, has visited Consul General Mason and recounted episodes of Thaw's stay.

Another woman, who says she is an American, has informed the newspapers that she figured in the "bath tub incident," to which reference was made in Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's testimony. This woman makes further allegations of maltreatment at the hands of Thaw, and declares that he gave her $2,000 to compensate for the injuries she sustained.

Social and Business Club of the Blind Wants Workshop Separate From School.

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER, Feb. 8.—The Social and Business club of the Blind has taken action in favor of senate bill No. 30, Robertson, to provide for a training school for the blind, to be built in Denver. The bill has also the indorsement of the officers of the Deaf and Dumb school in Colorado Springs, who believe that the workshop for adults should not be near the school. They state that a combination of the two has been tried in other states, with results decidedly against the plan. This club was organized last September to further the interests of the blind. Among those selected for honorary membership at the last meeting was W. K. Argo, superintendent of the school at Colorado Springs.

GETS EVEN WITH RAILROADS

War Department Will Hold Soldiers for Transportation Till Low Rates Are in Effect.

OMAHA, Feb. 8.—The war department has found a way to get even with the Union Pacific and Northwestern railroads for refusing to haul the Tenth cavalry from Nebraska forts to San Francisco at lower than tariff rates. Although the soldiers were scheduled to start on the journey on February 26, today orders were issued to hold the men until March 1, on which date the colonist rates are put into effect on all western railroads, and the soldiers will be hauled at one-half the regular rate, plus $2. This is a lower rate than the quartermaster's department expected to secure from the railroads on a regular bid.

WHO WAS BACK OF MORGAN?

RICHARD W. MORGAN, of Boulder County, who was expelled from the State Senate last Wednesday for accepting a bribe during the legislative session two years ago, declares that he will make trouble for the men who have brought his disgrace to its culmination. "They can not make a scapegoat of me," he is quoted as saying. "I know where the big money went two years ago, and if they do not protect me, I will talk. When I open my lips there will be an exodus to Europe." "They" have not protected him, and it is time for Morgan to talk.

Morgan is not merely a bribe-taker; he is a bribe-taker who voluntarily and publicly confessed his guilt for the purpose of frustrating the ends of the men who had bribed him. According to his own story, he sold his vote on the Gubernatorial contest to J. M. Herbert of the Colorado & Southern Railroad for $750, and the next day he told of it in a joint session of the Legislature. He tried to make a dramatic scene which would affect the attitude of the members, but failed. He ought to have been expelled forthwith, but instead his colleagues whitewashed him, and left his case for the present Senate to deal with. That it has thrown him out by a vote which lacked only one of being unanimous is highly creditable.

There is no sympathy for Morgan, for he deserves none. His career is at an end. But it will be extremely interesting to hear his story. The Denver News quotes him as saying that John Vivian, the Republican state chairman, promised him a few days ago that he would be protected, and the Post makes substantially the same statement. What interest has Mr. Vivian in the case? Why should he concern himself in protecting a self-confessed bribe-taker? But Morgan has threatened to pull down with him a number of men higher up. Ah, there's the milk in the cocoanut. That's why Mr. Vivian thought it would be "for the good of the party" if Morgan were left undisturbed in his seat. But the Senate got obstreperous and expelled him anyway, Vivian or no Vivian. Again we remark that it is one of the most creditable things the Senate ever did.

If Morgan knows anything about the corrupt methods used in the last Legislature, let him out with it, and if the "good of the party" suffers—so much the worse for the party. The party has no business being mixed up in such disreputable affairs, and it wouldn't be if it were not for the blighting domination of such political bunco steerers as Vivian, Broad, et al. So long as the party permits a few men of their kidney to control its affairs absolutely, sell high political offices, and dictate legislation on the floor of Senate and House, it must expect to submit to the galling humiliation of exposures like this one.

If there were other men in the Fifteenth General Assembly, who, like Morgan, sold their votes, by all means let the people know of it, and if any of them are still in the Legislature let them be expelled as summarily as Morgan was. Let the people know who got the money, and who paid it, and if the trail leads to the Jackson Building, let that fact too be known.

But alas! These things will never come to light. A man who will accept one bribe is pretty sure to accept another, and now that Morgan's silence is so vital to the peace of mind of the gentlemen "higher up" it may be made worth his while this time to stay bought.

SHOULD THE STREET RAILWAY BE SOLD?

SEVERAL days ago, [illegible] in the course of its discussion of the double-fare question, The Gazette suggested that if the men at the head of the street railway system can not give the people good service at a reasonable price without losing money they ought to sell it to somebody who knows how. They have demonstrated their own incapacity to manage the system properly, and they have never secured the services of anybody who could do it for them; therefore, we contended, they ought to sell it to somebody who would place it in charge of a practical street railway man who would see that the people of Colorado Springs, Colorado City and Manitou got an honest return for their fare.

[illegible] before the legislative investigating committee that at the very time we made these suggestions—or, as he naively puts it, "at the time that there was an infant newspaper function against the company"— certain approaches "were made by somebody unnamed," and the inference to be drawn from his statement is that this somebody wanted to buy the street railway system. Mr. Dines doesn't say what reply the executors made to these "approaches," but as no change has occurred it is to be assumed that they told the approacher that they would hang on to the street railway for a while longer.

We have no desire to see Mr. Lloyd deprived of his five-thousand-dollar-a-year job, or to suggest a course that would result in the separation of any of the other company office holders from their positions and the joys and emoluments thereunto appertaining, but in the interest of some fifty thousand people hereabouts who would like to get better street railway service we submit that the executors ought to have sold when they had the chance. In their reply to the business men's committee which waited upon them last fall to ask a reduction of fares, the officials of the company practically admitted that they didn't know how to run a street railway system, though they were trying to learn. Of course, they may learn in time, but meanwhile it is rather hard on the dear people who pay the fares. The rickety old cars on the Wahsatch and other East Side lines, which appear to be a cross between a prairie schooner and an omnibus, are getting more rickety every day, until the passenger who boards one never knows whether he will reach the end of his trip in safety or be spilled out in the road like the Deacon's, when his one-hoss shay went to pieces. People [illegible] wait for standing room on the crowded cars run on the Manitou line, and the people of all parts of the city are still held up for an extra fare in the most approved fashion whenever they go to Manitou, Broadmoor or the Canons.

No doubt the men at the head of the company are accumulating experience, but it is too bad that they can't get it at less expense to the public.

CROCODILE TEARS.

IN CONNECTION with Mr. Tyson Dines' statement anent the suggested sale of the street railway it is interesting to observe the virtuous indignation of our friend across the way, the Evening Telegraph.

That esteemed journal declares in a double-leaded editorial that "so far as we know, the only attack made upon the street car company was made by our morning contemporary." Quite right. "Our morning contemporary" was and still is the only daily newspaper in Colorado Springs whose approval of the street railway company can not be bought with passes, or with anything else. On the first day that The Gazette attacked that company the management returned to it all passes in their possession and asked that no more be sent. Up to the hour of going to press we have not heard of the Telegraph doing anything of the sort.

The evening paper declares that Mr. Dines' statement "demands attention," and "is of deep concern to the newspapers of Colorado Springs, as well as to the public." Just why it should so "deeply concern" the Telegraph we are unable to understand, for isn't the Telegraph still getting its passes? And won't it continue to get them so long as it continues to be good and say nothing about the street railway company and the executors of the estate except what Dr. Rice tells it to say? Tush, tush, neighbor! Don't be frightened. The dear people, whose "organ" you claim to be, may continue to pay double fares till doomsday, but so long as you are obedient you can ride free.

But here's the bright particular gem from the evening paper's collection of thoughts. After hinting darkly that The Gazette "was being used as a club to force the executors to sell the road," it piously observes:

"We can scarcely believe that any newspaper would thus betray its constituents and barter its good name and good will for so base a purpose."

Awful, isn't it? But recalling the Telegraph's famous and still unexplained flop on the charter question last fall, its enthusiastic support of certain odoriferous gang candidates during the campaign, and later its sublime devotion to the opulent Simon, we find ourselves quite unable to share its reluctance to believe that "any newspaper" would "thus barter its good name" for a base purpose.

TALKING.

From the Kennebec Journal.

In New Hampshire as well as here in Maine they are talking of abolishing Fast Day since the institution there as here has fallen well into regular desuetude and is no longer observed in the spirit of former days. The Manchester Union does not entertain much hope, however, that the day will be abolished since New Hampshire clings to its ancient customs in very conservative fashion.

NATIONS PREPARING FOR WAR.

From the Detroit Free Press.

There was a time when men talked of beating the sword into the pruning hook and melting cannon into plowshares or something of the kind. But they were misguided men who had little understanding of the true situation. War is to be prevented by no niggardly subscription to demands for disarmament. The opposite is the case. Germany will therefore build a 25,000-ton battleship presently, and others later. The addition of a battleship four-fifths this size made England pre-eminent for the minute. Then Japan built one and began others. The United States reported plans and specifications and before the trials of the Dreadnought had been completed England's pre-eminence was threatened. Germany wants the record. If a 20,000-ton battleship made all others obsolete, a 25,000-tonner will do the same thing and the rivalry will be progressive. We can not foresee the end.

THE JURY QUESTION.

From the Lowell Courier-Citizen.

There are very few men who are really so pig-headed as to adhere to a first opinion through thick and thin, regardless of what new fact may be shown them. But if you can believe the statements made at jury-drawings, about fifty per cent of humanity, and perhaps more, is willing to take the ground for that one occasion only! To expect men to be ignorant of such a case and to ask that, knowing any of the facts, they shall have formed no idea as to the probable guilt or innocence, is asking too much. The man who hadn't formed original ideas in his own mind as to the case would hardly be more competent than the man who had; and in our opinion not likely even to be so safe to trust as his more up-to-date and better informed fellow. But that opinion need not disqualify; unless one is really so obsessed by his first rudimentary views as to be stiffly beyond convincing by exact information when duly presented to his attention. Nothing would be gained by insisting that juries be [illegible] ... trust a man's fate to a crew of twelve ignoramuses, [illegible] to the view that the weighing of delicate evidence in a murder trial is beyond the ordinary jury and far safer to be committed to trained judges on matters of fact as well as law. At present we are sorely put to it to select good men and true whose minds are open, whose freedom from initial bias and prejudice is such as to commend them in advance—and with no better evidence than their own statements at that.

SIDEWALKS IN PUEBLO.

From the Pueblo Chieftain.

Property owners on the paved streets, who are delaying sidewalk reconstruction unnecessarily, must fail to realize in what an unfavorable light they are placing themselves before the public. In many cases not only the renting price of property but its permanent value is being depreciated because the sidewalks are unsightly and even dangerous for pedestrians, and business is being diverted to other stores and other blocks, where a greater regard for public propriety is shown. Of course, in the end all property owners will have to conform their sidewalks to uniform grades and alignments, for the council will undoubtedly pass a compulsory ordinance to that effect in the near future. But in the meantime progress is delayed, unpleasant criticism is aroused and loss is sustained—unnecessarily.

PROBLEM OF TRANSPORTATION.

From the Saguache Crescent.

The fruit crop of the Western slope has been increasing for several years. Last year it was so great that it could not be taken care of and a very great per cent of it could not be marketed. The chief reason was that the railroad facilities were inadequate. It is a known fact that during the busiest part of the fruit gathering season, all other trains were delayed on account of the jam in the western slope fruit belt. This condition will be getting worse year after year. The fruit growing area is being extended to broader limits, and the area of general farm land is being increased. Each year the transportation to market of the increased products of the western slope becomes a greater problem. In another year the Gunnison tunnel will [illegible] 200,000 acres more will be brought under cultivation. In a few years more the present transportation facilities will be entirely inadequate to handle the enormous productions of that great empire. What will be the result? One thing certain, this country will demand an outlet and it will be furnished.

RATHER A TALL FISH STORY.

From the Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

A remarkable case has just come to light at the headwaters of Garder creek. Ten years ago Columbus Allison went to that point to fish and cut a willow pole and set his hook and line, sticking the pole in the bank. He then got engaged in something else and forgot his fishing pole. After a lapse of ten years he thought of it a few days ago and went to the scene at once, and there he found that his pole had grown to be a willow tree three feet in diameter. The line was its usual size and when he raised the hook he found several generations of fish on it, the one that was originally caught on it having raised a school of fine ones each season. When Columbus drew up the old fish all the others followed and he loaded them all in his wagon and drove home, wondering at the strange occurrence.

WHERE THE PLEASANT TIMES ARE HAD.

From the Bloomfield (Iowa) Farmer.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Miller, in Perry township, last night a party was held in honor of Mr. Emerick, who with her daughter, May, goes this week to Williamsburg, to visit her sister, Mrs. Collinwood. Gilbs, Price, wife and daughter, Oscar Snell, Jennie and Arthur McKibben and Mrs. Gib Barker were there. Pop corn and candy were served and a royal good time was enjoyed by all. The country is the place to go to have a good social time. The whims and fancies of "sassiety" and the cold-blooded still formalities are abandoned and a hearty good time prevails.

A. J. Beasley has returned from Colorado, where he moved about a year ago and will establish a blacksmith shop in the building adjoining Gibson Duke's barn, east of the Commercial hotel. We welcome him back. He and his family are fine people. All were sorry when they left and we now rejoice at their return. Success to him.

Lew Harvey has accepted a "sit" in his father's meat market on the north side square and will learn the trade. Lew is a good fellow and no doubt will make a success of it. With such an experienced and skillful instructor as Mr. Leon in the shop with him, he certainly has a good chance.

One of the finest pieces of work we have ever seen was done by A. D. Gibson, the blacksmith, when he welded the big spring on Herbert King's auto. It was broken in two places.

'TIS THE LAST ROSE OF SUMMER

'Tis the last rose of summer
 Left blooming alone;
All her lovely companions
 Are faded and gone;
No flower of her kindred,
 No rosebud is nigh,
To reflect back her blushes,
 Or give sigh for sigh!

I'll not leave thee, thou lone one,
 To pine on the stem;
Since the lovely are sleeping,
 Go, sleep thou with them.
Thus kindly I scatter
 Thy leaves o'er the bed
Where thy mates of the garden
 Lie scentless and dead.

So soon may I follow,
 When friendships decay,
And from love's shining circle
 The gems drop away!
When true hearts lie withered,
 And fond ones are flown,
Oh! who would inhabit
 This bleak world alone?

—Thomas Moore.

HOW TO STOP REVOLUTIONS

Mexico Has a Way of Causing Disturbers to Disappear.

From the Washington Herald.

Mexico of all nations wherein Spanish blood predominates, alone seems to understand the shortest and most satisfactory way to dispose of revolutionists. Central and South American countries hardly have breathing spells between revolutions. Cuba has been indulging in one continuous "revolution" for many years. Santo Domingo and Hayti are ever at it. But Mexico has reduced the revolutionist to a cipher. If he exists at all in that country he is scarcely ever heard of, except in a way that shows Mexico's complete control of him.

The truth of the matter seems to be that the South American revolutionist is a business man at his trade. He "revolutes" as a professional matter. In Mexico as soon as a man shows any symptoms of the revolutionary disease he is unceremoniously bundled off to jail and allowed to think it over behind the bars. If he is at last released from durance vile and then behaves himself all may go well with him.

But the government keeps an eye on him and in case of a relapse he is quietly taken out to some secluded spot and cheerfully shot. Then the report of the "mysterious disappearance" is given out.

Obviously it is rather a depressing business to conduct, aid or abet a revolution from behind steel bars. The inside of a dark jail is a very unsympathetic atmosphere for a patriot who is "agin the government." There are no applauding multitudes to cheer and whoop things up.

In fact, there is absolutely nothing inside of a jail calculated to keep the flame of revolutionary desire brightly burning. However, should the would-be reorganizer of governmental affairs fail wholly to divest himself of his aspirations while inside the jail he has an even more dreary prospect ahead when he gets out.

To die the death of a martyr to the cause of revolution may, in specific instances, appeal strongly to a sashed, bucklered and belted knight—provided the spectacular surroundings necessary for a correct and approved death in that manner be also provided. But just to "mysteriously disappear"—that is not alluring, attractive or calculated to inspire.

On the whole, it looks as if the Mexican idea has stood the test of time. The great man at the head of the Mexican government is not alone great himself but is surrounded by a splendid corps of advisers. Never has Mexico been allowed to lag or recede as other nations marched forward so long as Diaz has been in command. The bane of other Latin-American governments—the revolutionist—has been reduced to naught in Mexico. There are few revolutions there—opera bouffe or otherwise. President Diaz has made good riddance of practically all such bad rubbish.

ADVANCE IN WAR ON CONSUMPTION

From the Washington Post.

In the widespread campaign against tuberculosis 53 cities of the United States have found it desirable to require the registration of all cases of consumption with the public health officer. In Washington the committee on the prevention of consumption is now advocating a similar measure and justifying it with reports from the 53 cities and letters from a score of physicians of national reputation, who have had extended experience with this measure.

The purpose of compulsory registration is not to attack consumptives, but consumption. The proposed law provides that the health department shall not in any way divulge the cases registered and shall not interfere at all with patients for whom a physician is responsible. Only cases which are uninstructed and uncared for are to be followed up, with a view to both promoting their recovery and preventing the spread of the disease. The fumigation of all rooms which have been occupied by consumptives and the free examination of the sputa of suspected cases are also provided for.

Experience in 53 other cities appears to prove that the registration can be made strictly confidential; that no annoyance or inconvenience results, and that both patient and physicians, after a fair trial of the law, are agreed [illegible] in the cities where it has been introduced the leading authorities report that compulsory registration is essential and helpful in combating tuberculosis.

THE CONDITION OF HIS HEALTH

From the Atlanta Constitution.

A little of the philosophy of an old afflicted brother might help some of us out on the life road. "And how is your good health this morning?" someone asked.

"Well, sir," he replied, "I can't complain. Outside of the old war rheumatism, an' a crick or two in my wooden leg, caused from sympathy, an' the deafness that come on me in '75, an' the cataract over my left eye, an' a leetle twinge o' the springtime ague, an' the hard to understand change in the elements above us, I am proud to relate to you that my good health was never better!"

HOLBROOK & PERKINS

SENTENCED TO PRISON

SEVEN MEN MUST SERVE TERMS AT CANON CITY.

James Lacey Fined $500 and Costs for Keeping Colorado City Saloon Open on Sunday.

Yesterday was criminal day in the district court, Judge W. S. Morris passing sentence on a number of [illegible] as follows:

Ed. McCollum, colored, grand larceny, five to seven years; J. E. Collins, burglary, one to two years; Frank [illegible] larceny, one to three years, [illegible] [illegible] Guy and William Taylor, both colored, robbery, five to seven years; Ed. [illegible]ington, criminal assault, [illegible] to five years; S. T. Stevens, burglary, three to five years; James Lacey, keeping Colorado City saloon open on Sunday, fine of $500 and costs, and Thomas Hodkinson, assault and battery, [illegible] days [illegible].

All the prison sentences are for confinement in the state penitentiary, except that of Hodkinson, who [illegible] his term in the county jail. McCollum, who was convicted of burglarizing the store of the F. H. Martin Drug company, was found guilty by the jury on a charge of grand larceny. Guy and Taylor held up W. W. Warner at Roswell, and S. T. Stevens, who had previously worked extensively with an accomplice in Denver and Pueblo, stole a gold necklace from a rooming house in this city. His pal is awaiting trial in Pueblo.

Particularly pathetic was the sentencing by the court of J. E. Collins. The prisoner, who is more than 70 years of age, pleaded guilty several days ago to stealing lead pipe from a vacant house. He said that starvation and illness had driven him to do the act, and that he not only had never been in trouble before, but that no member of his family had ever been in court. He would rather die, he said, than have his relatives know of his plight.

In passing the minimum sentence of from one to two years, Judge Morris said.

"You are the man who has been puzzling me day and night. I am reluctant to pass sentence on you, but you pleaded guilty to the act, and there is no alternative for me under the law."

FOREST FIRE IS RAGING

Thought to Be Between Bear Creek and Cheyenne Canons.

A forest fire which is thought to be burning between Bear Creek and Cheyenne canons has been raging since yesterday afternoon. All last night it was plainly visible from the city. The exact location and extent of the fire could not be ascertained last night. It was at first reported that the fire was in North Cheyenne canon, but this is not the case. Owing to the dry weather which has prevailed for some weeks and the wind which has been blowing since yesterday morning, the fire is burning fiercely.

A BRILLIANT SOCIAL EVENT

El Paso Club Ball Attended by Society People of This and Other Cities.

The most brilliant social event of the Colorado Springs winter season was the annual ball of the El Paso club, in the club house last night. The ball room was thronged with Colorado Springs society people and a number of visitors from Denver and other Colorado cities. Adorning the walls of the ball room were valuable paintings owned by Giles E. Bosworth. The pictures and cut glass electric light globes were wreathed in southern smilax, and the musicians were hidden behind a trellis of smilax and palms.

The mantels and cosy corners were banked with ferns and palms mingled with roses and carnations, with here and there some thrifty potted plants. The supper and card rooms were decorated with flowers.

The receiving ladies were Mrs. J. Arthur Connell, Mrs. Orlando E. Willcox, Mrs. Percy Hagerman and Mrs. George B. Tripp. The committee on arrangements was composed of Meredith Bailey, chairman; William O'Brien, Dunbar F. Carpenter and William F. Richards.

COLLEGE "FRAT" INITIATION

Banquet Served After Exercises Many Guests Attend.

At an initiation held last night by Beta Omega chapter of the Kappa Sigma fraternity of Colorado college, four candidates were initiated into that order, as follows: George Fremont Ackley, twirler for the Tigers; Alfred Leon Johns, second baseman on the college baseball team; Francis George Riche and Earle Stanley Alden.

Following the initiation, which was private, a banquet was served at Tucker's restaurant. The guests of honor were J. V. McClelland of the School of Mines at Golden, P. Fiten of Denver and C. S. Leuchtenburg, an alumnus of Beta Omega chapter. Those present at the banquet, aside from the young men who were initiated and the guests of honor, were the following: M. R. Smith, A. Colbert, J. C. McBride, E. W. P. Smith, G. W. Smith, W. C. Tegtmeyer, M. R. McLain, C. L. [illegible], [illegible], R. A. Pritchard, A. G. Lincoln, K. L. Hyder, E. H. Hoover, C. A. Kaine, C. K. Nixon, G. T. COLORADO COLLEGE MAY SHARE

Part of Rockefeller Gift of $32,000,000 May Come to Colorado Springs Institution.

Colorado college may profit from the recent donation of $32,000,000 made by John D. Rockefeller to the General Education board in New York city. It is the only institution in the state which may get a share of this fund, as the other Colorado schools of higher learning are maintained by the state. President Slocum of Colorado college last night said that he knew nothing about the proposed gift to the college from Rockefeller's donation.

Mr. Rockefeller, with this monster donation, has surged to the front as the greatest giver to the cause of education in the world. The Rockefeller educational gifts now aggregate $1[illegible],500,000. His nearest rival is Andrew Carnegie, the steel magnate, whose gifts total $147,000,000. This last gift of the oil king's is said to be the largest sum of money ever given by a man to charity or philanthropy in the history of the world.

CHARGED WITH STEALING COW

John Y. Curr and Harry Brown on Trial—Cascade Man Is the Complainant.

John Y. Curr, a ranchman, son of John Curr, a prominent resident of this city, and Harry Brown, foreman of Curr's ranch at Broadmoor, were on trial before Justice W. N. Ruby yesterday morning, charged with stealing a cow from John Crowe of Cascade. The case was continued until 9 o'clock this morning, when a witness named Martin, wanted by both sides, will probably appear.

Crowe accused the two defendants of taking a cow previously purchased by him from Dr. J. F. DeWitt, also of Broadmoor, and left to pasture on DeWitt's land. The hide, hoofs and skull were submitted as evidence in court. Curr admitted that the hide belonged to an animal which he ordered Brown to slaughter, but claimed to have purchased the cow from Martin.

The ears, hoofs and other marks of the slaughtered animal were destroyed, according to the evidence, by whoever killed the cow. Curr says that he does not know why this was done, he merely having ordered the animal to be killed.

BOYS TO DEMONSTRATE WORK

Visitors Will Have Opportunity Tonight to See Work of Department—Public Invited.

WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS SAY

"THE RAGGED MESSENGER."

"The Ragged Messenger," which Creston Clarke will present at the Opera house on next Tuesday evening, is an [illegible] generously constructed play that is deserving of unstinted praise for its [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of human emotions, and its big problem of the conflict between priestly holiness and world love is handled with a strength and delicacy that compel one's admiration and sympathy. It is just teeming with terrific heart interest and, according to the criticisms that have been read and heard, Creston Clarke portrays its leading character, John Norton, the clergyman, as if inspired.

In reviewing Mr. Clarke's performance the critic of the New York Herald said: "He is the only actor we ever remember to have seen grow suddenly white to the very lips, and never before have warring passions been so clearly expressed on the human countenance without the aid of words. When he did speak—well, if you have ever listened to Creston Clarke's vibrant, heart-searching tones, you will know that they are indescribable." Reserved seats are now on sale. No advanced prices.

"SIS HOPKINS" AT THE OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT.

An attraction of unusual interest, which will be seen at the Opera house this evening, is "Sis Hopkins," the most delightful, the cleanest and the most enthralling comedy drama of rural life which has been presented on the stage in 20 years, in which Miss Rose Melville, the originator of the character of "Sis Hopkins," will play the title role for the eighth consecutive season. Miss Melville's manager, Mr. J. R. Stirling, has provided her with a company of unusual excellence this year, and the entire production is a new one in every respect. While the story of the play itself—the fundamental basis around which the action revolves during the three acts necessary for its telling, is the same, Mr. Stirling has added a great deal of new material in the way of specialties and dialogue. For instance, Obadiah, the undertaker's assistant, whose greatest joy is a rumor of death and disaster, has a lot of new epitaphs for the good people of Posey county, in which he ridicules their fads and hobbies. Obadiah is a good-natured soul, but he always keeps an eye open for the main chance, and being assistant to a country undertaker makes him irresistibly funny in everything he does. Miss Melville's portrayal of "Sis Hopkins," clad in gingham pinafore, striped stockings and panella gaiters, with her hair done up in tight little pig-tails on either side of her head, is being received this season with greater favor than ever, and everywhere she appears it is to the capacity of the theater.

MAKE A RICH STRIKE

REITON AND ASSOCIATES FIND ORE AT LAST.

After Search of Several Years Operators Find Pay Ore on Mineral Hill, Within Limits of City.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 8.—Reiton and associates, who have been operating on Mineral hill for several years in search of paying ore, have at last made a good strike. Yesterday they opened up an ore body at a depth of 60 feet in their claim located near the Last Chance and within the corporate limits of the city of Cripple Creek. The ore body is one and a half feet wide, of decomposed granite formation and gives returns of from four and a half to seven ounces of gold to the ton.

Something peculiar about the ore body is that it has every appearance of a strong and permanent vein. Heretofore ore bodies opened in this section have been but small shoots, and the paying mineral has been taken from pockets. The work of developing the ore body will begin at once, as the lessees believe they have at last encountered a true fissure vein.

The Standard Leasing company, operating in the South Burns claim of the Acacia company, is reported to have opened up a new body of ore at a depth of 850 feet. The new vein is not as large as the bodies formerly encountered, but it is understood it gives returns of from five to thirteen ounces in gold to the ton. The ore body is only a trifle over one foot wide and is of a sylvanite formation. It has not been developed far enough to determine whether or not it is just a small shoot or a regular vein.

The Deadwood mine of the United Gold Mines company will be put in operation tomorrow by T. J. Dalzell, the newly appointed state commissioner of mines. The Deadwood property has been closed down for some time, and when operations are renewed Dalzell will begin the work of sinking the shaft another 100 feet, and also do considerable crosscutting and drifting. It is thought that good ore bodies traverse this property.

A car of ore which it is thought will give returns of better than $130 in gold to the ton, was sent out this morning from the Independence property on Battle mountain. This grade of mineral was broken from a one-foot vein lying between the 400 and 500-foot levels and 40 feet north of the shaft.

WILL RUN FULL CAPACITY

Wishbone Cyanide Mill Will Soon Be Treating 150 Tons Daily.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 8.—The Wishbone cyanide mill is treating at the present time about 50 tons of ore a day and it is expected that the plant will soon be running to full capacity, or about 100 tons a day. This mill is now handling custom ore for the most part, which is being supplied from the Mountain Beauty and the Hillside claims. The ore will run about $10 or $12 in gold to the ton, and is easily treated by the cyanide process. The lessees on the Hillside are awaiting the result of a test now being made on their ore. If it runs as high as they expect they will increase their tonnage sufficiently to keep the mill running to about capacity.

MILL IS ALMOST COMPLETED

Blue Flag Cyanide Plant Will Soon Be Ready to Treat Ore.

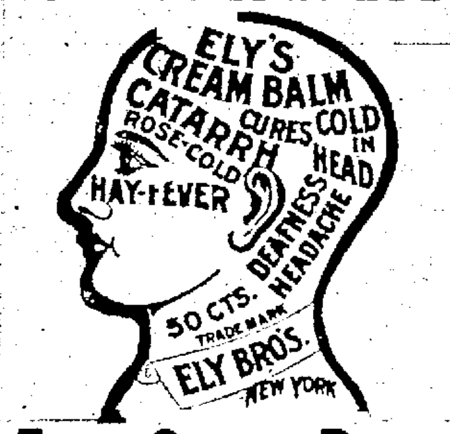

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 8.—The new Cyanide mill of the Blue Flag Gold Mining company is about completed at a cost of about $40,000. This mill will treat only its own ores, at least at the start. The mill can handle between 150 and 200 tons of ore a day and as there are several big, low-grade oxidized ore bodies in the Blue Flag mine, the company will have plenty of ore to treat. The Blue Flag ore is of a good grade and the company will probably realize handsomely on its low-grade rock. The better grade and refractory ore will be sent, as usual, to the mills in the valley.

ORE SHOOT GROWING WIDER

Moon-Anchor Lessees Are Realizing Handsome Profit from Recent Strike—Values Remain Good.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 8.—Stacey and Peachey, who a short time ago opened up nearly two feet of three-ounce ore at a depth of 150 feet on the Moon-Anchor on the northwest slope of Gold hill, are making regular shipments and are realizing a handsome profit from their lease.

As the ore is followed the shoot is getting wider, while the values are holding up remarkably well. Operations are being conducted south from the old working shaft.

The Union Leasing company has been driving a crosscut from the main workings, through the Moon-Anchor property about 350 feet into the Annie Rooney claim, which lies north and west of the Moon-Anchor property. This company expects to drive another 100 feet before the dyke can be cut. When this is done it is expected that a large and rich body of ore will be uncovered.

REGULAR WEEKLY SHIPMENTS

Driscoll Is Taking $30 Ore From the Specimen Claim.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 8.—Dr. W. E. Driscoll, who is leasing on block 191 of the Stratton estate on a part of the Specimen claim on Bull hill, is making weekly shipments of ore that give returns close to $30 in gold to the ton. The ore is being mined at comparatively shallow depth in a shaft which has been sunk not to exceed 60 feet. There is a good sized ore body exposed and in the course of a few weeks it is expected that the tonnage will be materially increased.

READY FOR ORE IN APRIL

Jo Dandy Mill Being Erected as Fast as Possible.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 8.—The Jo Dandy mill on Raven hill is being erected as fast as possible, but the work is slow. It will probably be about April 1 before the mill will be ready to handle the Jo Dandy ore. This was formerly known as the Gillett mill, which has been dismantled and transferred to the Jo Dandy property on Raven hill. This plant will be able, when in running order, to treat not less than 200 tons of ore a day, and as there are several immense shoots of oxidized ore in the Jo Dandy mine, which will run from $15 to $20 in gold to the ton, the plant, it is believed, will pay for itself in a short time after resuming operations.

El Paso Gold King Makes Shipments of Ore Averaging Better Than $30.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Feb. 8.—The El Paso Gold King mine, located at the head of Poverty gulch, which enjoys the distinction of being the first shipping mine ever opened in the Cripple Creek district, continues to make weekly shipments of from two to three cars of ore a week. The ore is giving returns better than $30 in gold to the ton. The bulk of the ore is coming from the lower workings of the 900 and 1,000-foot points, 300 to 400 feet north of the shaft. The shoots are from three to seven feet wide.

STOCK MARKET DULL

DOUBTS AS TO SPECULATIVE OUTLOOK REVIVED.

Dropping Tendency More Than Wipes Out Early Gains—Rumors Emanate From Washington.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The stock market had an active hour after the opening today, during which prices were held above the level of yesterday's recovery. Apparently distribution was going on at that level, and the market lapsed into extreme dullness and hesitating fluctuations thereafter. The effect was to revive doubts over the speculative outlook. Most of the material for the day's speculation was in the form of rumors and most of these emanated from Washington.

There were large buying orders at the same time executed by houses with important Washington connections. The effect was to produce an impression that important developments were to be forthcoming there, bearing on financial and stock market conditions. There were plenty of rumors to supply details with great definiteness, but authoritative information was lacking.

Confidence is felt in the financial district that moderate measures of currency reform have been undertaken at Washington, under auspices that give good promise of success. It is believed that provision for the routine deposit of surplus revenue of the government, including customs receipts in national banks will be made and the limit of monthly retirement of bank note circulation expanded to $12,000,000 or $15,000,000 instead of $3,000,000 as at present. The removal of this limitation is expected to lead to freer note issues by the banks, where they are restrained now from the difficulty of retiring the notes when they come back from their circulation.

The impression has got abroad in the financial district that assurance has been received in some way of a likelihood that the interstate commerce commission would not be opposed to an advance in freight rates, if prices were equalized. There was a still more specific rumor about the stock exchange of an intended alteration in the government process against the Standard Oil company, which is regarded as a sort of typical test case of the attitude to be taken toward the great corporations' investigation.

The uncertainty in the stock market movement was probably the outgrowth of the rather unsubstantial material on which it is thus seen it was based. The market felt the effect also of the reduction of the short interest, by reason of the covering of shorts in yesterday's market. A hardening of the call money rate late in the day also weighed somewhat on the market. This was supposed to be due principally to the making of provision for paying the subscriptions to last week's New York bond issue of $30,000,000.

The preliminary estimates of the week's currency movement also indicated a weakened banking position. The movement on balance to this center from the interior apparently continues, but on so small a scale as to offset only slightly the loss of the banks on subtreasury operations, which amounted to $4,291,000. Reports were current also of further note issues by railroads, either placed or in contemplation. The rate of interest which these notes are made to bear at the price they bring indicates that the market is still inaccessible to capital issues of a more permanent form, at prices which corporations could afford to accept. The drooping tendency of the market more than wiped out the early gains and held to the closing, which was easy.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $1,634,000.

U. S. bonds were unchanged on call.

WHEAT CLOSES EASY

PRICES MAKE SHARP ADVANCE DURING DAY.

May Option Reaches High Point—Corn and Oats Are Weak—Provisions Are Firm.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Trading in the wheat pit was active and the market somewhat unsettled. At the opening some weakness was manifested because of a decline on the Minneapolis curb and because of liberal shipments from Argentina. After the first hour the market became firm and prices made a sharp advance, the May option selling up to 80⅝, the highest point touched since last August. The strength in the local market was a reflection of further advances in Europe, which were believed to foreshadow important developments in the way of foreign buying. Reports received today regarding the export business appeared as bullish as those which caused the market advance of yesterday. During the last hour the market again eased off on selling caused by the weakness of coarse grains. The close was easy. May opened a shade lower to a shade higher at 80 to 80⅛, sold off to 79¾ and then advanced to 80⅛. Final quotations were at 80.

Corn was inclined to be weak. It was reported that nearly 8,000 cars of corn are standing on railroad tracks in and around Chicago, waiting to be unloaded or transferred for eastern shipment. This report, together with advices that supplies are accumulating rapidly at country stations, caused free selling by the longs. Cash houses also were good sellers. Shorts were the principal buyers. The market closed weak, with prices near the lowest point. May opened a shade to ⅛@¼ lower at 47⅛ to 47¼, sold off to 46¾ and closed at 46⅞.

Trading in oats was less active than during the last few days and the tone of the market was rather weak. Several of the larger commission houses were free sellers. May opened unchanged to ⅛ lower at 40⅞ to 41, sold off to 40⅞ and closed at the bottom price.

Provisions were firm and fairly active. Shorts covered freely and packers were moderate buyers. Offerings early in the day were light but later local holders seemed inclined to sell. A five-cent advance in the price of live hogs was the chief bullish factor. At the close May pork was up 10@12½c at 17.85@17.87½. Lard was up 10c at 10.07½. Ribs were 7½c higher at 9.55.
